Can you imagine?

Can you imagine what your street and city would look like if everybody took care of trees and nature?

Many, many years ago, before the cities that we live in today were built, there were groups of people living here in California who took care of the trees and nature around them. They had children and grandchildren, and some of their families still live here today and take care of the nature around them. But now we have cars, roads, and big buildings, and it is not so easy to take care of the trees and nature. Draw a picture below of what you think your city would look like if everybody took care of the trees, parks, and nature.

Show your drawing to an adult or parent, and ask what they would draw!
